

MILL WORKERS AT LAWRENCE GO ON STRIKE

Action Is Taken as a Protest Against Imprisonment of Etter and Giovannitti, Accused of Murder.

TWELVE THOUSAND
MEN ARE NOW IDLE

Trouble Expected to Spread; 100 Extra Policemen on Duty in the Mill District of City.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 27.— Practically 12,000 textile operatives here have been affected tonight by the great strike inaugurated by the Industrial Workers of the World to show their sympathy for Jose E. Etter and Arturo Giovannitti, leaders of that organization, and as a protest against their trial in connection with the killing of Anne Lopiz during the strike last winter, which is to begin in Salem Monday.

Tomorrow it is feared there will be an extension of the strike. Mill owners were said to be ready to close down the plants in event of further walkouts, or if disorders developed.

In a comparatively mild degree Lawrence experienced today a repetition of the scenes enacted last winter. Only mild disorders resulted, however.

Slight Disturbances.

Some of the more eager strikers, in attempting to get workers to leave their machines, caused slight disturbances in several mills. Reports of a number of injuries were received by the police, but none of the injured was seriously hurt. Clubs were flourished to intimidate working operatives and mill machinery at several plants was damaged. A few windows were broken.
The police made only three arrests.

Of the 12,000 operatives who quit work, probably half did so as a protest against the trial of Etter and Giovannitti. The others were forced out, either because of intimidation or as a result of the closing of their departments. Leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World renewed their assertion tonight that the strike was not sanctioned, was unorganized and without a leader.

Leaders Against Strike.

"We are unable to control the people," said William Yates of New Bedford, national secretary of the textile branch of the Industrial Workers of the World. They broke away from us completely and left their work against our advice. We hoped they would heed the message sent from jail by Etter and Giovannitti urging them not to strike.
Of course, in event of a majority vote in favor of a general strike, the Industrial Workers of the World will give the same support to the movement as it did in the great industrial battle last winter."

Several Meetings Held.

Several meetings of Industrial Workers were held tonight, most of the speeches being in foreign tongues. The largest meeting was addressed by Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, of New York.
She urged the operatives to return to their mills tomorrow or Monday at the latest and await the call of the leaders for a strike.

Secretary Yates announced that William D. Haywood, who directed the strike here last winter, in its latter stages and who, on Boston common two weeks ago, urged a country-wide strike in protest against the detention in jail of Etter and Giovannitti, had been asked to come to Lawrence. Mr. Yates said Mr. Haywood would hurry east from Chicago.

At the conclusion of the various meetings tonight it was announced that the question of returning to work Monday would be decided tomorrow.

State Will Appeal.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 27.—On the ground that it is unconstitutional, Federal Judges Humphrey, Sanborn and Baker today decided the state 2-cent passenger law is unconstitutional as far as the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railroad company is concerned. The judges today signed a decree which makes perpetual a temporary injunction granted in 1906 by Judge Humphrey, which restrains the state from enforcing the law against the railroad.

No other railroads are affected. The state will appeal.

TAFT TRUSTS PEOPLE BRYAN'S CONTESTATION

the patronage, but to carry out the plans for remedial legislation. It would be a very incomplete victory if we elected a Democratic president and then found his hands tied by a Republican house or senate.

Expects to Win Senate.

I feel quite sure that we are going to make enough gains in the senate to give us control of that body, and I feel quite confident that we are going to have a Democratic house, but I would not be overconfident, and I fight on the theory that we need every vote, and if you are persuaded that you ought to give us the benefit of your vote in the electing of the national ticket, I hope you will not fail to show that interest in voting for the Democratic candidates for congress, and while the state ticket has nothing to do ordinarily with the national campaign, yet when these men make the sacrifices that they do and when they give their time and their means to the carrying on of the campaign, we must help the national ticket while it helps the state ticket. I think this should be considered in addition to the arguments that might be made in favor of these candidates on the ground of individual worth and merit. I, therefore, in presenting the arguments on national questions, ask you to consider the claims not only of our candidates for president and vice president, but the claims of our candidates for congress and the candidates on the Democratic state ticket.

Mr. Bryan then devoted his attention to the three conventions, covering the same ground that he did in his Salt Lake speech. He then continued:

Mr. Taft has been president for four years. He has given us a chance to see what he thinks and how he acts. Four years ago the people took him on faith. Mr. Roosevelt said he was all right and the people didn't know any better until they got him, but now they know better and there is no reason why they should take him on anybody's say-so.

Pointed Comparison.

Now I repeat that I believe Mr.
Taft is an honest and well-meaning man, but he is not fitted to the job.
I can't understand how there can be any likelihood of his being made president again, or why anybody should desire to have him made president again. It is no reflection on a man to say that he ought not to be president. I have got to maintain that position, because so many have said it in regard to me. And surely if seven millions of people say that I ought not to be president, I ought to be allowed to say that two hundred other fellows that I know ought not to be president. I hope you won't think I am boastful when I say that I believe I could have been a better president than Mr.
Taft has been.

I am no more anxious to have Mr.
Roosevelt president than I am to have Mr. Taft president. In fact, I am probably in the best position I ever was and I don't suppose I will ever be again in as good a position as I am now. I am able to please more people with my speeches now than I ever did before. Heretofore I have been able to please only a few of the most of them, but the Republicans haven't liked my speeches, but now I am very popular with the Republicans and I never make a speech now without pleasing everybody in the audience. It is a rare experience for a public man to be able to do that, but I have done it. I have speech I first tell the people why Taft ought not to be re-elected and every Roosevelt Republican applauds me. Then I tell them why I believe Roosevelt ought not to be president, and every Taft Republican rejoices in every word I utter. And the reason why, they are happy all the time.

Contrasts Candidates.

Now Mr. Taft's chief fault I think is that he is constitutionally distinct from the people. Mr. Taft Roosevelt's fault is that he is constitutionally over-trustful of himself, and surely no man has ever had better reason to distrust his judgment in picking out presidents than Mr.
Roosevelt has. For there are few men in the history of this country who have failed miserably in picking out a president. Mr. Roosevelt picked out Mr. Taft. That is his star performance in public life, and he had no doubt about it, about him, either; it was not a hesitating sort of a commendation, it was not like one fellow's recommendation of another, "I don't know any harm of this man." Why, no. He says, "Here is a man who is the best prepared man who ever walked. Some of our presidents have been, possibly good, but none of them has been prepared for it like Mr. Taft."

Now this is the first case that I have been able to find in the political or judicial history of the world—I make it strong, and if any of you present to me a case where I have been wrong, I will be glad to admit it. I am sure that I am right. This is the first I have found in all history where a guarantor has to be responsible because his judgment has failed. It looks now as if he intended his recommendation to be understood in a different way from the way in which he understood it.
It looks now as if his guaranty was intended like this: "Take this man, and if he doesn't measure up to my standard, then I will be responsible and as a punishment I will not only take his place, but I will serve as president the rest of my life to show you how sorry I am."

Take the election of senators by the people. That is the greatest thing that he advocates today. It is the greatest reform in a hundred years and he commenced advocating it two years ago. The Democrats began fighting for it twenty years ago; they passed it through the house of representatives in Washington in 1892, and I had the pleasure of voting for it when I was a member of congress at that time. Twenty years ago he commenced; two years ago he commenced.

Teddy Late Convert.

Now, my friends, I am glad to have Mr. Roosevelt come over, but I want you to know that this man has not been over long, that when we made our fight some years ago and first called on him to take this government out of Wall street, he was on Wall street's side; in 1906 we fought again and Wall street was against us and made him vice president, where the accident of death could make him president, and in 1904 Wall street made him president, and four years ago Wall street helped to elect as president a man that he had picked out and induced. That is the record of sixteen years that he has been on the other side.

presided there as temporary chairman in the convention that endorsed Taft's administration, and he never said a word against it, and the convention endorsed the Payne-Aldrich bill and he never protested against the endorsement. He went clear to Massachusetts and helped elect Lodge to the senate, and Lodge was so re-lected.

Says Roosevelt Failed.

Less than a year ago, when La Follette started out as a candidate against Taft, Roosevelt would not take sides and wanted it distinctly understood that he was not taking part as between Mr. La Follette and Mr. Taft, and yet La Follette was the pioneer reformer in the Republican party. He was the man that stood alone in the Republican senate, defying all those reactionaries and putting check marks on their backs and driving them out of the senate by reading their records, and Roosevelt did not repudiate the work that La Follette did. I am willing that Roosevelt should come along now and turn state's evidence and testify against his pals, but I am not willing to make him prosecuting attorney just yet.

My friends, since I was in Utah the other day I have been in California and Nevada and in Nevada yesterday I visited Virginia City, and there I saw what remains of that once flourishing place, and they told me about the Comstock lode—that it was the richest mineral vein that had ever been found in this country and with one exception in the world, and that one exception was the world, and that 700 millions of money had been taken out of that Comstock lode, but it took fifty years to do it, but can you tell the number of freight teams and stage coaches, can you tell how many men went down in the bowels of the earth—down 2,000 feet they are now below the surface—can you tell how many men have tolled, how many have been killed, how many have been disappointed, but yet as a result of all this they got out $700,- 000,000.

How Trust Gets Rich.

When the steel trust was organized, a handful of men went into a little room and sat around a little table and with pen and ink and paper they wrote out and put into their pockets what represented $100,000,000, and that is the way they can do when they have the Republican party to permit them to steal the national treasure into the pockets of 30,000,000 people.

The old pioneers crossed the plains, and many of them died of the ex-posure, for those men had to work for the little that they got out of the earth, but under these systems where the trust has its power, they extract money from the people? They do not have to make any sacrifices, they do not have to endure any hardships, all they have to do is to elect presidents who are friendly to them and senators and members who will let them do as they please. Now, this has gone on and the Republicans did not stop it. And Mr. Roosevelt was president for seven years and a half during that time and he never said a word against the steel trust, he never tried to squeeze the water out of that great corporation's stock.

If he would just squeeze the water out of the stock of this trust he would have enough to irrigate all the arid lands of the west and let these people go on and plunder the public, and then he starts out a new party to make the trusts permanent and to give you assurance that they will not be disturbed he makes a director of the steel trust and the manager of the largest trust Mr. Perkins, his chief financial backer, his chief political adviser.

Pleads for Wilson.

I find my time is up. I told you when I started how short it was. I have talked rapidly and I have said been able to say a few things that I would like to have said, and now in conclusion, when I say as against this man who has been weighed in the balance and found wanting, and against this man who has been president for seven years and a half and who has planned the establishment of trusts as a permanent institution, against this belated reformer, for he is a reformer, and this man who rescues our industrial independence on the trust question, I present to you a man on the best platform, that was presented to the people at the Baltimore platform, who gives you the progressiveness for which you are ready to sacrifice, a man who has the intelligence to fill that office, whose sympathies are with the people and whose moral courage has been tested and found to be of the highest type. I appeal to you now to come and help elect a man pledged to a single term, who if he is elected will have nothing to do with the trusts, the people and their interests, who will not have to spend time working for re-nomination and re-election. I present to you our candidate, Woodrow Wilson, as the man.

BRIEF TALK AT BRIGHAM.

Bryan Makes Characteristic Ten-Minute Speech From Rear of Train.

Special to The Tribune.

BRIGHAM CITY, Sept. 27.—Speaking for ten minutes from the rear of his special train, Bryan today, at 7:30 o'clock tonight, William J. Bryan strove to urge the crowd of about 300 persons present to vote the Democratic national ticket. In his talk, he referred to all three of the presidential candidates, saying special compliment to Wilson. He was presented by County Chairman E.
M. Tyson. The train pulled out of Brigham at 7:45 o'clock. Several prominent local Democrats accompanied it.

The speaker declared that Roosevelt had not made a single speech since he was elected. He then attacked the Taft administration, saying that in his opinion it had accomplished nothing.
He said Taft and his cabinet advisors did not trust the common people.
He denounced the Democratic nominees, saying that Wilson is the only man for the people. He said Wilson had made a progressive state out of New Jersey, which work alone should endear him to the voters.

Special to The Tribune.

LOGAN, Utah, Sept. 27.—A tremendous throng gathered here this evening to hear W. J. Bryan. Twenty-five hundred crowded into the stake tank where the meeting was held, while hundreds were massed outside. State Senator J. F. Tolson presided at the meeting. J. F. Tolson and T. D. Johnson addressed the gathering during the long wait for Mr. Bryan. He appeared about 9:30 o'clock and before entering the hall was compelled to speak to the crowd through outside the building. He said he had been informed that Taft sentiment was strongest in Utah and he therefore confined his remarks almost exclusively to the attitude of the president on public questions. He asserted the president was not in sympathy with the common people and contended that reforms had come in spite of him rather than with him. There was a big demonstration at the close of the address.

Mr. Bryan left here at 11:20 o'clock, accompanied by Judge Powers, State Chairman Thurman, L. R. Martineau and other Salt Lakeers. Tolson and T. D.
Johnson remain here to canvass the county.
